5) Allocation of Stands

Allocation of Stands in the Sacra Infermeria Hall of MCC is at the sole discretion of the National Book Council. Without prejudice to the generality of the Council's discretion as aforesaid, the prioritisation of spaces allocated to prospective exhibitors in the Sacra Infermeria Hall will be made on the following criteria:

1. Exhibitor is a publisher of quality books written by local authors.
2. Exhibitor is a positive contributor to activities organised by the National Book Council including the Malta Book Festival 2016.
3. Exhibitor will organise quality events at the Malta Book Festival 2016.
4. Exhibitor will take the initiative to bring a foreign author to the Malta Book Festival 2016 with the cooperation of the National Book Council.
5. Exhibitor imports and sells contemporary quality books.

6) Further Conditions and Regulations

No exhibitor is allowed to hand out promotional flyers to children attending the festival. Any participant caught breaching this regulation will be fined a sum of €1000.

In case the participant fails to remove all of his or her items from the premises of the Mediterranean Conference Centre by the 14th of November, the National Book Council will impose a penalty on the participant, the amount of which is to be determined by the National Book Council.

The participant cannot make use of more than 1.2kw of lighting fittings.

The participant cannot make use of an electrical load exceeding 30A.

The participant is allowed to offer free drinks following and/or during an event (such as a book launch, reading etc.) on the respective stand or elsewhere in the hall. Food offered in the hall on the stand and/or following and/or during an event must be ordered exclusively from the MCC's official caterer "Island Caterers".

Exhibitors can only use sound systems, electronic devices emitting sound or any musical instrument played live on their stands against permission from the National Book Council. Participants and exhibitors playing music or using sound-emitting devices during times and hours which were not stipulated by the National Book Council's official programme of events of the Malta Book Festival 2016, may be fined €500.

Exhibitors who sign this agreement, but fail to fill their stand with their books and stock, and/or throughout the Festival fail to attend to their stand, and/or be present at their stand during the opening hours of the Festival, unless agreed to by written permission from the National Book Council, may be fined by the National Book Council double the total cost of the stand.

Exhibitors are agreeing to the above rules and regulations when signing and submitting this application. Any decisions made by the National Book Council are binding and final.
