Criteria

Adjudicating criteria for children and adolescent literature in translation

Definition of Translation in this context for the purpose of competing for the Award is the following:

A linguistic interpretation of a of universally-accepted genres originally written in any language (i.e. source language) other than English or Maltese into the target language: Maltese.

Linguistic interpretation is hereby defined as:

a textual rendering where a reasonable balance is kept between “faithfulness” to the original authorial intention in both content and form, and the translated/adapted text incorporating intrinsic and accepted literary values in its own right.

Broadly speaking, there are two main criteria, to be adhered to:

1. The texts translated are to have as close and as faithful an interpretation as possible to the original, whether this text is directly translated from the source, or whether through the intermediary bridge language of English.

Faithfulness (accuracy and precision) 60%

Significance of the translated work in terms of subject matter for the target culture/audience

Marks

15

Evidence of close, critical and creative reading of original text leading to valid & faithful interpretation

15

Translator’s knowledge of the source text historical, political, socio-cultural & literary context in which the text was produced

15

Nuanced sense and appreciation of the discourse-stylistics of the original (i.e. use of language for the desired effect/s) and use of additions and deletions to find an equivalence of meaning

Comments:

2. The translated texts for the three categories: children - ages 0-7, children - ages 8-12, and adolescents, that is, those translated directly in the target language Maltese from the four languages: French, Italian, German, Spanish are to be judged on their own literary linguistic merits, as distinct from their adherence to the original form and content. Effectively, these translated texts in all the accepted categories (Books for Children, ages 0-7 and 8-12, and Books for Adolescents) are to be adjudicated through the criteria as stated below. The mark calculated from the criteria marked below should reflect 40% of the total mark.
