QUINQUE (ALFRED SANT)

Ir-Rumanz tal-Fieres Safran describes the travels of Markald, known as the Yellow Knight, from the kingdom of Camelot in Gaul, ruled by King Arthur, to the south of Europe. Along with the other Knights of the Round Table he leaves in search of the Holy Grail. But instead, Merlin the wizard sends him to find the platter made of clay which was kept under the Holy Grail and is stained with drops of Christ's blood. Since the fall of the Muran empire, there is anarchy all over Europe. Yet Markald reaches the islands of Melite and Gaulos and successfully retrieves the Sacred Platter. Back in Camelot, the Yellow Knight does not receive the welcome he expected.

RACHAEL HALLOWAY

I suffered from Anorexia and depression for a decade, and when I recovered, I found the diaries I kept throughout the torment, as well as the experience of volunteering in Ghana when I was well enough.

I felt strongly to expose the reality of what it is truly like to suffer from mental illness, to help people understand it while also showing recovery is possible.

I also launched a charity in Malta, “Walk and Talk”, to offer support within the community and raise awareness through the media to reduce the stigma of talking about mental health.

RICKY CARUANA

Ricky Caruana is a novice to the world of writing but an old hand in the world of thinking, and it is with Resonance: A Glimpse of Infinity and Strings of Fate that he is trying to put his thoughts into words. His research interests and the focus of his books stem from his insatiable need to address the fundamental questions about life and our place in the universe. Significantly, Caruana’s work encourages the reader to second-guess and challenge that which we take for granted, as he combines the philosophical with the personal, and the scientific with the speculative. He is currently working on another monograph, this time on the subject of death and the afterlife.

SANDRA HILI VASSALLO

Sandra Hili Vassallo is the author of the IMELDINA series and of MIKELIN, winner of the National Book Prize. She also wrote IL-KOMPONIMENT TAL-MALTI and IL-KAXXA TAL-MEMORJI dealing with children in foster care and out-of-home care.

Sandra is passionate about children’s rights, migration issues, social justice and the environment. Sandra also writes short stories for adults and is rediscovering poetry writing. Her stories were published in LEHEN il-MALTI and other publications.
